Senate Committee Meets Today To Decide Action On Mississippi Flood Program

WASHINGTON, July 18 (UP)—The Senate Republican policy committee meets today to decide whether to press for action on President Truman's request for $250,000,000 to initiate a long-range flood control program in the Mississippi basin.

Prospects did not appear too bright for squeezing the President's proposal into an already full agenda for the remaining eight working days of this session. But there were indications that even if Mr. Truman's special plan were pigeonholed, his request might prompt the legislators to increase funds in the regular flood control bill.

Chairman, Chas. McNary, R., S. D., of a Senate appropriations subcommittee working on the flood control measure, said he thought there was a good chance of the Senate's increasing the $100,000,000 already voted by the House. Another subcommittee member predicted the Senate would set aside at least $200,000,000 for flood control projects.

Mr. Truman had requested $250,000,000 over and above any regular appropriations made for flood control for the current fiscal year. It was estimated that his 10-year plan to prevent a recurrence of the recent disastrous floods in the mid-west would cost more than $6,000,000,000.

The President at his news conference yesterday described the initial appropriation he has asked as a "down-payment" on flood protection.

To the charge of Chairman John Taber, R., N. Y., of the House appropriations committee, that his program was motivated by "politics," Mr. Truman replied that Taber criticized everything and that his objections were to be expected.

The President's plan did not include provision for "valley authorities" along the lines of the TVA. Sen. James E. Murray, D., Mont., author of the Missouri Valley Authority bill which addresses the valley development conference today, is expected to express disappointment that the President didn't endorse the valley plans.

Morris Llewellyn Cooke, Philadelphia consulting engineer who called the conference, charged that the major opposition to the valley development idea came from the "electrical operating industry."

669 Lives Lost As Ship Sinks

BOMBAY, July 18 (UP)—A heavily-loaded steamship sank in Bombay harbor taking the lives of 669 persons, including every woman and child aboard, shipping officials reported today.

Seventy-two persons—all men—survived.

The ship went down in a sudden tropical storm.

Commander H. J. Mills, opening a formal investigation into the tragedy, reported that the ship, the S. S. Ramdas, went down near Gull Island, the most treacherous area around Bombay harbor. It was the scene of India's worst previous maritime accident — a 1927 collision which took 250 lives.

Mr. and Mrs. Anothly, "Tony" Myers, former operators of Myers Restaurant, Paducah, will assume management of the Collegiate Inn on Sunday, it was announced here today.

The Collegiate is newly decorated and enlarged and will use a capable staff of workers, Myers said today.

The inn, located near the college campus, will be open from 11 a. m. to midnight each day, seven days each week.

Allen Signs With Browns

CLEVELAND, July 18 (UP)—The Cleveland Browns of the All-America football conference today announced the signing of quarterback Ernie Allen, passing ace from the University of Kentucky.

Allen played three years for Kentucky before entering the armed forces. While in service he played on the North Carolina Pre-Flight eleven, and on the eastern Army All-Stars.

Allen was an assistant coach at Kentucky last year.

House Promptly Overrides Second Tax Cut Bill Veto

WASHINGTON, July 18 (UP)—President Truman today again rejected the $400,000,000 Republican income tax reduction bill, but this time the House promptly overrode his veto.

The House vote was 299 to override and 108 against. This was 27 votes more than the two-thirds majority necessary to override.

The Senate, however, is expected to sustain the veto late in the day. This would kill the tax reduction bill for the second time in a month and eliminate all chance for enactment of a tax cut this year.

In vetoing the revived bill with its January 1 effective date, Mr. Truman repeated his previous objections — that it was inflationary, unsound and unfair to the low-income group.

And he injected a brand new argument — the international crisis caused by the recent sharper division between the Russian bloc and the west.

Although the House overrode his decision, a veto sticks unless both the House and Senate override by two-thirds majorities.

The Senate was expected to fall two votes short of the necessary two-thirds.

The House had sustained the veto of the first tax measure a month ago by a two-vote margin, making it unnecessary for the Senate to act that time.

Republican spokesmen charged Mr. Truman with abusing the Presidential veto power for political purposes.

National Chairman Carroll Reece said in a statement that "apparently Mr. Truman is determined that his three-and-a-half year tenure in the White House shall go down in history as the veto-add."

Guerrillas Routed By Air Attacks, Air Ministry Says

WASHINGTON, July 18 (UP)—Chairman Charles A. Eaton of the House foreign affairs committee said today the United States is "within sight of a shooting war this minute in Greece."

The New Jersey Republican told the House rules committee that the Soviet Union, as a result of Secretary of State George C. Marshall's "Plan" for the rehabilitation of Europe, "has taken off its mask."

Either America will stand and hold the fort in Greece or Russia will take over," Eaton said. "If Russia takes over Greece, the destiny of mankind is at stake."

Athens, July 18 (UP)—Guerrillas in northwestern Greece scattered today under heavy strafing attacks from Greek aircraft, but a fresh guerrilla force was reported forming in Albania.

Greek War Minister George Stratos said the new guerrilla force was sighted behind Lake Prespa, at the juncture of the Albanian, Yugoslav and Greek frontiers.

Stratos said measures were being taken to meet a possible new attack.

Greek aircraft, meanwhile, shot up the guerrillas which the Greek government claimed invaded Greece from Albania on Sunday. The Air Ministry announced that guerrillas, presumably including those turned back from the gates of Ioannina (Yannina), were spotted near Zagoria.

Greek fighter planes, the Air Ministry said, raked the wooded area with machinegun fire. Pilots believed they inflicted "heavy casualties."

The Greek army reported that guerrillas from the Kalkapi area were splitting into smaller and smaller groups, some "fleeing" northward toward Mt. Grammos, and some "fleeing" southwestward toward Metsovo.

The group headed for Metsovo appeared to be "fleeing" deeper into Greece. Metsovo is 12 miles from the Albanian border.

The Greek army did not estimate the number of Metsovo-bound guerrillas, but announced that it had sent two Greek infantry divisions to meet them. The strength of the defense force indicated the army considered the guerrillas dangerous.

MURRAY SOFTBALL LEAGUE SCHEDULE

(Games of July 3)
Orday Hall vs. Coldwater
Murray Mfg. Co. vs. College Vets

Hazel Defeats Coldwater; Independents Win By 10-3

Hazel brought its winning streak to three as they downed Coldwater 19-11 in the opening game of a "win" bill last night at Murray High stadium. The Murray independents gave the Murray Manufacturing company its third straight loss as they piled 10 hits to win 10-3.

The big bats of Pat Clark, Billy Joe Saunders, Joe Paschall and Johnny Owens went to work to pound-out 16 hits. Johnny Owens batted in four wins on a double and triple. Clark collected three singles, Saunders a double and two singles, and Paschall a double and three scores batted in.

Jack Hargrove and H. J. Bazzell of Coldwater each collected two hits. The real bat of Coldwater was swung by R. L. Bazzell, the pitcher, who collected a triple in three hits.

Alfred Lassiter started for Hazel but was relieved at the end of the second with Coldwater leading. H. V. Lassiter walked one man. Jim Humphries started pitching in the third and received credit for the win. Humphries had trouble controlling his pitch and walked six.

The Murray Independents bunched four wins in the second and sixth to lead the stovemakers their third consecutive loss and drop them to third place in the league standings.

Bill Miller, Brent Hughes and John Njany each got two hits for the local boys. Earl Givens got one double with the bases loaded to drive in three runs.

Haron West showed a great deal of control as he walked one and struck out seven Sanders walked three and struck out one.

Games tonight pit Orday Hall and Coldwater in a game between the last two teams in the league standings. Jack Wyatt is scheduled to start for Orday while R. L. Bazzell of Coldwater will be seeking his second win.

The nightcap tonight promises to be a good game. Manager Charles Gibbs of the Vets will start either W. T. Solomon or "Goon" Hodges. Solomon has a class difficulty that might prevent his seeing action. George Sanders of the Stovemakers will be out to stop his team's losing streak. A win for the Stovemakers would put the Murray Breds on top of the league. League standings at present are: College Vets, 4-1; Murray Breds, 6-2; Murray Manufacturing Company, 4-3; Independents 5-4; Hazel, 3-5; Orday Hall, 2-5; and Coldwater, 1-6.

Dropping Of Word 'Teachers' Suggested For Four State Schools; Accreditation Of Morehead, Regent Tenure Is Advised

FRANKFORT, Ky., July 18 (UP)—Griffenhagen and Associates, Chicago public administration experts, today recommended that the General Assembly recognize each of the four state teachers' colleges as full fledged colleges and drop the title "teachers' colleges" from each of them.

Similar recommendations concerning each of the four institutions — Eastern at Richmond, Western at Bowling Green, Murray and Morehead — were made with the added recommendations that steps be taken to restore Morehead State Teachers' College as an accredited institution.

The school was deprived of its accreditation following changes instigated by the state administration more than a year ago, resulting in the removal from the presidency of Dr. William H. Vaughn, who is now connected with George Peary school for teachers, Nashville, Tenn.

Recommendations also included one that colleges belonging to the athletic conference establish rules and regulations concerning the number of athletes to be subsidized, amounts to be paid them and their responsibilities, and that athletic scholarships be limited.

Griffenhagen made a number of recommendations to the effect that more business like procedures be adopted at each of the institutions. Budgets be supported with more statistical data and that a comprehensive maintenance schedule with cost accounting for materials and service be had.

The survey report suggested that the schools to be required to deposit all receipts with the state treasury until such time as the law permits them to retain certain receipts.

In addition to recommending tenure for members of boards of regents, the survey suggested that "no member of a board of trustees or regents be appointed from the county in which the college is located."

It suggested, too, that the intercollegiate program be reduced to what can be operated on a self-supporting basis rather than rely on the "supplementary use of public funds for its support."

Management of Morehead Teachers' College came in for criticism for failure to maintain fire extinguishing equipment and emergency safety devices.

"There are no exterior fire escapes," the survey said of the Morehead institution. "There are fire alarms only in the science building and the men's hall. Five fire plugs are on the campus. No record is kept of condition of the fire extinguishers and the date of recharging.

"On November 28, 1945, fire prevention rates division recommended the repairing of panic locks, installation of chemical fire extinguishers in designated buildings, replacement of bad hoses, and several other specific things that needed to be done for emergency precautions."

"With the exception of a few minor items, most of the recommendations have been ignored. The recommended corrections should be made without further delay."

The management of Eastern Teachers' College, too, was criticized for "being extremely lax" in removing fire hazards.

For Western and Murray Teachers' Colleges it was suggested that "better standards of cleanliness be used for care of college buildings, and that all janitors be placed under competent direction."

"Salaries for instruction employees of lower rank should not be higher than salaries for higher rank," the report said of Western College. "There should be no overlapping of salary ranges. Salaries are, in most cases, relatively low for college salaries but this is generally true of all colleges and of all public-school teachers in the state."

It is a salary schedule adopted by a salary schedule to replace the bargaining basis now used and to eliminate possible unconscious favoritism such as has existed and which should be replaced by a schedule will have no value unless there are also restrictions on promotions in rank.

"No promotions should be made on the basis of time served. Merit alone should control."

Intercollegiate athletics is unduly emphasized at Western, as in the other state colleges. There are fewer foreign names on the football players payroll than is in the case for some of the other colleges, yet there are a number of names that have not had their origin in Kentucky.

If this college and other colleges would search as far and wide for qualified faculty members as for football players, Kentucky would have excellent colleges, as it has excellent football and basketball teams.

The college also has intercollegiate teams in baseball, track and tennis and it is planned to add golf to the list.

"Intramural sports is worthwhile education and needs development. It should have first place, after class instruction, in the work of the department of health and physical education."

Athletics at Murray came in for this comment:

"Athletes should not be paid, but if athletics continues to be subsidized, athletic associations of which Kentucky Teachers' colleges are members should arrive at a definite agreement on how many athletes may be employed and how much each is to be paid. Provisions of the agreement should be clearly understood by all colleges and should be adhered to strictly."

Teams at Murray are strong. Basketball teams are especially strong and in some years would be able to defeat many good university teams. Probably the principal reason, Murray has a strong team is that the college subsidizes its athletes.

"It is almost certain that the inducement offered athletes in the form of board rooms and fees attracts a number of athletes that otherwise would attend some other college. There can be no serious objection to the college's having strong teams. In fact, if anything of value is to be done, it should be done well."

Emphasis on intercollegiate athletics results in the oversteering of athletics for the few and neglect of sports for the many. A few students get too much training and most of them get too little.

Similar comment was made as to Morehead and Eastern.

Calloway County Horse Show

Plans are fast developing for the Calloway County Horse Show for 1947. This show is becoming one of the outstanding events that occur in Murray each year, and attracts more and more enthusiasts with each production.

Prize money amounts to sixteen hundred dollars this year. Also many trophies and ribbons will be awarded.

Events of this nature add to the prestige of Murray, as entries from several states are usually shown.

Coch Jim Moore deserves the cooperation of the townspeople, in order that the program this year will climax all others.

Scouts Are Busy Now Preparing for Trip Abroad

Murray's four Scouts with Scoutmaster Ralph Wear are rather busy at this moment preparing for a trip abroad they will never forget. It is good to be able to say "going abroad" now instead of going overseas.

They are probably ensnared in red tape, which always seems to be incidental to a large group leaving at the same time for the same destination.

Although the preparatory period may get to be a bit trying, it will not by any means mar the trip. The checking and double checking is entirely necessary, as items needed for such a trip are obtainable here while they may be practically non-existent in the various countries they will visit.

The Ledger & Times will attempt to provide as clear a picture of their activities as possible, by publishing letters from the boys as they come in.

Congress Betrays The Fighting Man

The first session of the eightieth Congress has betrayed the veteran in a number of respects, but the most shameful letdown for the former G. I. has been the matter of housing. Far too many members swallowed the bait for the powerful, well financed real estate lobby and the homeless veteran has been left holding the bag.

Everyone knows what a disgraceful fiasco the federal housing program turned out to be. Fewer houses are being built, and most of those available are priced beyond the reach of the average veteran. Meanwhile, the harassed, disheartened ex-G. I. and his family still are living doubled up with relatives, in-laws and friends. As an organization, the Veterans of Foreign Wars is duty bound to see that members of the eightieth Congress answer for their sins. And those answers must be direct, clean, and forthright—not in the evasive, vague generalities politicians are wont to employ.

Congressmen will testify and go home. Its members will be called upon to give an account of their stewardship. To those members who have been party to the betrayal of the nation's fighting men, the Veterans of Foreign Wars strongly commends some figures issued recently by the Veterans Administration. They tell an eloquent story of the current and potential voting strength of veterans and those who follow them.

As of now, says the Veterans Administration, veterans and members of their immediate families constitute 32 per cent of the nation's population. By 1952, this figure will reach 41 per cent. Putting it another way, it is estimated that veterans and their families now total 16,000,000, and by January 4, 1952, this total is expected to reach 22,300,000.

Within the fast-growing veteran organizations, these veterans and their families are forming their lines. No politician can afford to ignore such a formidable fighting force.

As General Bradley said recently: "In a very real sense almost every person in this country is related to a veteran. The politician would do well to ponder the political significance of this conclusion."

Meat Eaters, If Any Are Left, Will Be Glad To Know Prices Are Now Lower

By Frederick C. Othman
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, July 18 (UP)—You meat eaters will be interested to know that chuck roast and hamburger costs less today than under Chet Bowles' OPA price controls.

This information raises some eyebrows in Senatorial circles, but Dr. Robert J. Eggert of Chicago (who produced it) stuck by his guns; all right eaters.

As associate director of marketing for the American Meat Institute, the Doc was glad appropriately for his guffing by the lawmakers in a suit of color of a brindle calf and a tie the exact shade of a raw beefsteak. Take hamburger, said he.

When a housewife had to slip the butcher red coupons as well as cash under the Bowles regime, Dr. Eggert said, she paid a legal 29.4 cents for one pound of hamburger. Her husband paid another eight cents a pound for it in the form of a packers' subsidy taken from his income taxes.

Of course said Sen. Ralph E. Flanders of Vt., the lady buying the hamburger didn't know about that eight cents.

"No, she didn't," agreed Dr. Eggert, "but there it was, anyhow, and then she paid another 6.6 cents overcharge on her pound of hamburger."

"What?" demanded Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio, chairman of the joint economic report committee.

Yet the Doc said, he'd sent out shoppers in eleven cities during OPA's heyday, and 6.6 cents was the average illegal nick given, the housewives' pocketbooks by the butchers.

Some butchers didn't charge so much above ceiling, but some charged a great deal more," Dr. Eggert added, "and we believe that 6.6 cent figure is very conservative. So the 29.4 cent ceiling price, the eight cent subsidy and the 6.6 cent overcharge brought the cost of a pound of hamburger to 44 cents, retail."

Today, he said, hamburger in the same 11 cities is 40.4 cents a pound without hocus-pocus. The same formula — let us cheer — makes chuck roast cost half a cent less than it did during the war.

All other kinds of meat, the pork chops in particular, cost more now than they used to, even by the figures of the meat men. Dr. Eggert didn't mention pork chops in his speech, but he did submit a stack of charts. These showed that Bowles priced pork chops at 37.5 cents a pound, that the subsidy was 5.6 cents, and that the average overcharge was 4.1 cents for a total of 47.2 cents. Today pork chops cost 70.6 cents a pound and I'll take caviar because it is cheaper.

Sen. Taft agreed, though he didn't exactly put it that way. He wanted to know how come the cost of meat soared 100 per cent since 1939, while the overall cost of living is only up 50 per cent.

Dr. Eggert said there were many reasons, but the main one is that people have more money than they used to. They're spending it for beefsteaks. He said, in fact, that the price of meat for many years has varied almost exactly in ratio with the size of American payrolls.

But price itself is a talisman of product," he added. He's telling me. Meat has been rationed around my house lately more strictly than Bowles ever dared. Some militant ladies here are organizing a buy-meat week. And a hamburger sandwich in my favorite joint now costs 40 cents.

Dr. Eggert said he thought prices might drop a little this fall, but I'm afraid then I'll be a confirmed vegetarian.

He is FIRST a farmer. He has owned and operated a large body of Shelby County land all his life. He is one of Shelby county's outstanding business men. He served as county judge for six years and installed the balanced budget system, placing the county on the road to freedom from debt.

The livestock, dairy, tobacco, and other agricultural men have learned to turn to Judge Walters for sympathetic and effective aid. In the legislature since 1940 he has sponsored more farm legislation than any other member. He is a member of the agriculture committee and for three terms its chairman. He fought for and secured enactment of the pure seed act, Kentucky filled milk law, and a law enabling the old burley pool to make advance payments. He sponsored and fought through the legislature the bill to take the State Fair out of politics, a law which means so much to Kentucky's great horse show and livestock exposition.

Judge Walters has served as a member of the State Board of Agriculture and a member of the Board of Trustees of the University of Kentucky. His son and two sons-in-law were members of the Armed Forces in World War II and all three of them saw overseas service. He has been a member of the Board of Trustees of the Old Mansions Home of Kentucky for many years. He is a charter member of the Farm Bureau, a Rotarian, a life-long member of the Christian church and chairman of the official board.

No candidate has better qualifications for the office sought than Harry F. Walters. Give him your vote in the Democratic primary election, August 2.

YOU AND YOUR HOME
By RACHEL ROWLAND
Home Demonstration Agent

With summer really here at last a real problem is planning and serving your family well balanced meals without spending most of your time in the kitchen. Then, too, when you are busy with your canning or garden sometimes it's almost impossible to stop that activity to cook a meal.

There are ways and means to have good wholesome meals this summer without too much effort on your part.

Most of it means more planning (when you're enjoying a rest on the porch) cooking foods in double quantities for a second meal and taking advantage of all short-cuts.

As you plan your meals ahead, whether on paper or in your mind, remember that you don't have to cook every vegetable in the garden every day. If you serve only two or three at dinner each day you are likely to find your family will eat more vegetables and will not tire of them so soon. A meal of two or three cooked vegetables, meat, raw vegetables for salad, bread and butter, with or without a dessert, is sufficient for persons doing almost any kind of heavy work.

When cooking double quantities of food always remember the food should never be served "as is" for the second meal. Change its type or flavor so it definitely isn't a leftover.

Short cuts can range from cutting the breakfast biscuits in squares with a knife to serving supper picnic style with paper plates and napkins. The smart person uses all the short cuts she can think up or learn and is proud to use them.

Usually it is the lazy person who goes on and on doing the same things in the same way. She is "too busy" to learn or work out a quicker, better way.

The old saying "use your head and save your heels" is just as useful today as it ever was, and it certainly is worth keeping in mind as you go about the task of preparing meals during hot weather.

CHAPTER TWENTY-NINE
IT WAS 5:45 A.M. when Ada Greenlee paid her second call on Jeff. Darkness still shrouded Cedarhurst, but Jeff heard the metallic clink of pots and pans that signified the sanitarium kitchen was preparing for another day.

Ada was beside his bed before he knew she was in the room. "Are you still game?" she asked. "Yes, I'm game," he answered. "I don't want to escape the scheme for escape that Ada had suggested, yet unable to reach any other solution himself."

"I'm going off duty in fifteen minutes. . . I'll tell my relief that you had a bad night and don't want to be disturbed."

"Thanks, Ada. I don't want to get you in any trouble."

"Skip it! I'm leaving here today. Another week and I'll be on my way south."

"I know, but you're a registered nurse—don't want to damage your record."

"From tomorrow on, I'm the wife of Sergeant Bill O'Brian—and they can't touch me."

"You're a great girl, and the Sarge is a mighty lucky guy."

"I'm going to try to keep him thinking so," Ada smiled. "Now don't forget—the laundry truck arrives around eight, and leaves half an hour later. It parks just below your window, so you can keep your eye on it."

"Well, you can't be shot for trying. Anyway, I'll wish you luck."

She bent over suddenly and gave him a quick kiss. Then she went to the door and closed it softly after her.

JEFF lay there for another hour, then got up and quietly placed a chair against the door and beneath the knob. His muscles were no longer shaky; a day and night of rest had done much for him.

Then, reluctantly, with grim taste, he dressed himself in the large-sized nurse's uniform that Ada had brought him the evening before—white stockings and all. Standing before the full-length bathroom mirror, he grimaced at his reflection.

He was applying the finishing touches of make-up to his face when Parmenter came in. The other man promptly rasped, Jeff laughed and swore all in one breath.

"What are you going to do take Ada's place?" Parmenter asked.

"I'm asking the driver of the laundry truck to give me a lift," Jeff told him.

"Sounds like an interesting experiment."

"Don't you think it will work?" "I'll reserve my decision until your get-up is complete."

Parmenter watched with critical eye as Jeff put on Ada's coat and his own dark glasses.

"What about your hair? Wait a second."

Parmenter darted into his room, returning with a large square silk scarf. He wound it around Jeff's chest in fashion, then stepped back to survey his work.

"I wouldn't give you a nickel for your chances in broad daylight, old boy, but inside a laundry truck you may get by."

"It's got to work," Jeff's voice was grim.

Outside, he heard a vehicle drive up and park. The laundry truck!

Parmenter kept watch at the window while Jeff arranged pillows in the bed to resemble a sleeping figure.

"They're down to the last few bags, old boy. . . I think you'd better get a move on."
